

ABSTRACT

A system and a method for automatic verification of complex enterprise software systems, which improves the testing process by producing test scenarios using business process specifications.